Section I: Introduction

NJAIS MISSION

The New Jersey Association of Independent Schools (NJAIS) is a non-profit, voluntary membership association whose mission is to foster the educational, ethical, and professional excellence of its member schools, while safeguarding their independence. NJAIS fulfills its mission by:

- administering a rigorous, standards-based accreditation program that supports continuous school improvement.
- providing a broad spectrum of professional development opportunities for teachers, administrators, and trustees.
- advocating for member schools at the local, state, and federal levels.
- promoting best practices and the value of education in independent schools.
INTRODUCTION AND APPRECIATION FROM THE NJAIS EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR AND DIRECTOR OF ACCREDITATION

Dear Accreditation Team Member,

Thank you for undertaking this important role for NJAIS. Through the accreditation process, schools have time for critical self-reflection and improvement, and through evaluation, quality assurance is established.

Schools are reminded that the collaborative work that they have done in preparing the Self-Study is the most important part of the accreditation process. However, your role as a Visiting Team Member is vital to the success of this process. The conduct and tone of the Visiting Team members allows the school to feel that it is being reviewed fairly and fully, and that the months of meetings to prepare the report were well spent.

The task you are undertaking is an enormously important one—to the school that you are visiting, to the schools you represent as an official evaluator, for NJAIS, and to the strong tradition of independent education in New Jersey. It is quite common for Accreditation Chairs and Visiting Team members to remark that serving on a Visiting Team is an opportunity for tremendous professional growth.

In preparing this manual, we hope that we are providing you with information that will be helpful as you prepare for the visit.

Please be sure to ask your Accreditation Chair for help and guidance. We also stand ready to assist you.

Sincerely,

Carole Everett

NJAIS ACCREDITATION PROGRAM

Accreditation is central to the mission of NJAIS. NJAIS has been accrediting member schools since 1995, either as the sole accrediting agency, or cooperatively with the American Montessori Society (AMS), the Association of Waldorf Schools of North America (AWSNA), or the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools (MSA-CESS).

Similar to its member schools, NJAIS itself participates in a rigorous and impartial review of its accreditation program and demonstrates adherence to the Criteria for Effective Independent School Accreditation Practices set forth by the International Council Advancing Independent School Accreditation (ICAISA, formerly known as the NAIS Commission on Accreditation). In the fall of 2001, following the creation and adoption of its Standards and Self-Study by the Association’s Board of Trustees, the NJAIS accreditation program was granted recognition by the National Association of Independent Schools (NAIS). In 2013, NJAIS was granted certification by an international review panel from the NAIS Commission on Accreditation. NJAIS is a member in good standing of the International Council Advancing Independent School Accreditation (ICAISA). The NJAIS accreditation program is reviewed every 10 years by members of the Council.

Benefits of NJAIS Accreditation

The thorough and rigorous process of accreditation administered by NJAIS is important to independent schools for many reasons.

- Undergoing a thorough self-study process, receiving feedback through peer review, and developing a multi-year plan for institutional improvement supports each school in more fully realizing its mission.
- An effective process of evaluation and accreditation brings credibility to NJAIS and inspires public confidence in each of its member schools.
- The absence of an effective and professional system of peer review could well lead to increased oversight on the part of state and/or federal governmental agencies, yielding an accreditation process that would likely be more cumbersome and less responsive to the unique character of independent schools.

Other benefits of NJAIS accreditation include:
- promoting a reflective and collaborative continuous school improvement process;
- providing school leaders, including boards of trustees, with independent, non-governmental validation and affirmation of current programs and services, along with well-considered recommendations for future improvements;
- demonstrating the school’s willingness to be held professionally accountable;
- enhancing student learning and growth by examining the educational program;
- granting seasoned professional educators valuable exposure to best practices in other schools through their participation on peer review visiting teams;
• presenting a school’s board of trustees an independent, non-governmental validation that the school under its care is effectively delivering a quality educational experience to its students;
• assuring current school parents and the broader public, including prospective families, that the school is focused on providing a safe and enriching educational learning environment while maintaining efficient and effective operations;
• providing a credential that is often required in corporate and foundation fundraising;
• facilitating school and college admissions, transfers, and admission of international students;
• positioning school leaders for strategic planning and visioning; and
• enhancing staff collegiality and broader school understanding through the self-study process.

The Ten-Year Cycle
The NJAIS accreditation process is cyclical in nature.

The Self-Study Report: Every 10 years, following defined procedures, a school undertakes a comprehensive self-evaluation that results in a Self-Study Report. This is the foundation of the accreditation process and provides the focus for the subsequent visit of a team of seasoned educators.

This NJAIS Guide for Accreditation integrates mandated standards into a self-study protocol that requires a school to both describe how the NJAIS Standards for Accreditation are met and to generate plans for school improvement.

The Visit: A Visiting Team, comprised of peers from other independent schools, visits the school, views it through the lens of its mission statement and the NJAIS Standards for Accreditation, and validates the school’s Self-Study Report. Following this visit, the Visiting Team provides the school and the NJAIS Accreditation Committee with a draft report that includes the team’s observations, commendations, and recommendations.

Follow-Up: Between one and three months after the Decennial Visit, the school receives from NJAIS a final comprehensive Decennial Report and learns of its accreditation status. This Decennial Report lays the foundation for future school improvement and strategic planning/thinking/visioning.

Action Plan: Within one year of the receipt of the Decennial Report, the school must submit to NJAIS an Action Plan. The school chooses three to five overarching goals or initiatives on which it intends to focus in the coming years. This Action Plan must also include responses to all of the recommendations in the Decennial Report.
Five-Year Visit: Five years after the initial visit, a team of two or three members - from the original Visiting Team, if possible - visit the school. In advance of this visit, the school writes a Five-Year Report, including a state-of-the-school update, a description of progress on recommendations from the Decennial Report, and a response to the current NJAIS Standards for Accreditation. Accreditation status is evaluated again at this five-year juncture.

Significant Change Visits: During the time that a school is accredited by NJAIS it may undergo significant changes. The NJAIS accreditation process requires that a visit to the campus of the school take place as soon as possible - or within six months at most - following the change(s). Accreditation status is evaluated again after a Significant Change Visit.

The NJAIS Standards for Accreditation

Every 10 years, NJAIS conducts an extensive on-site review of each member school to confirm its continuing compliance with the Standards for Accreditation and other requirements for membership in the Association. The school’s Self-Study Report is the centerpiece of the decennial review. The school organizes an all-inclusive assessment of school operations in an endeavor, guided by the Standards for Accreditation, to chart a course for improvement in every area of school life. The Self-Study Report also assesses the school’s compliance with each standard and identifies any shortcomings requiring attention.

The NJAIS Standards for Accreditation are organized under the following major sections and sub-sections:

ROLES IN THE ACCREDITATION PROCESS

The Visiting Team’s Role

Visiting Team members are drawn from independent schools both within and outside of NJ and are carefully selected to match the needs of NJAIS and the school being visited. The work of the team is intensive and focused throughout the accreditation visit.

The job of the Visiting Team is to make sure that the school is, in fact, doing what it says it is doing in its Self-Study, to evaluate the programs of the school in reference to its Mission/Philosophy Statement, and to evaluate the school according to the NJAIS Standards for Accreditation. It is not the job of the Visiting Team to evaluate teachers or other personnel, nor to serve as consultants. Throughout the Visit, Visiting Team members will make constant reference back to these primary documents:

- The school’s Mission/Philosophy Statement
- The school’s Self-Study
- The NJAIS Standards of Accreditation

These documents, combined with first-hand observations of the school, are major points of reference for this evaluation.

The School

The school community invests 12-18 months on the process of self-evaluation. They then host a group of independent school educators identified by NJAIS and invite them to make assessments about the school and the work that has been done. They rely on the Visiting Team to be fair, clear, and helpful.

NJAIS Staff

The NJAIS Executive Director and Director of Accreditation work on behalf of the Accreditation Committee to appoint Visiting Team Chairs and members, and schedule and coordinate all aspects of the review process from start to finish. Services include guiding the school through its Self-Study process, on-site conferences, and publication of materials to support the schools. The NJAIS staff also supports the Visiting Team through its preparation, assignment of responsibilities, and review of the school. The NJAIS Accreditation Team Member Guide and workshop training sessions are all meant to help make the process cohesive for both the school and the Visiting Team.
Visiting Team Chair and Vice-Chair

NJAIS selects school leaders to serve as Accreditation Chairs and Vice Chairs. Their years of experience working in schools naturally prepare them for the complex roles they will serve as team leaders. Skills related to consensus building, diplomacy, prioritizing, observing, humor, and the ability to guide reflection, decision-making, and the process of bringing closure to the experience all serve an Accreditation Chair and/or Vice-Chair well. The Accreditation Chair and Vice-Chair serve as the filter through which information is sent both from the school to the Visiting Team and from the Visiting Team to the school. Though sometimes difficult, Accreditation Chairs and Vice-Chairs must leave thoughts of their own schools behind and focus only on the school being evaluated. This might be the Accreditation Chair's and Vice-Chair's most difficult task!

NJAIS Accreditation Committee

The Accreditation Committee, comprised of NJAIS Heads of School and Finance Officers, relies on the Visiting Team to provide clear, complete, and accurate information, as well as appropriate recommendations to assist the school in its improvement efforts. The Committee will evaluate this information and make recommendations to the NJAIS Board of Trustees concerning accreditation status.

NJAIS Board of Trustees

The NJAIS Board of Trustees takes action on the recommendations of the NJAIS Accreditation Committee. The NJAIS Executive Director communicates that action to the school. The decision is also communicated to the Chair of the Visiting Team, who then shares the action with the Visiting Team so that there is closure to the process.
Section II: Pre-Visit Preparations

PRE-VISIT PREPARATION FOR TEAM MEMBERS

___NJ AIS Director of Accreditation sends all Visiting Team members the NJ AIS Accreditation Team Member Guide, a Confidentiality/Conflicting of Interest Statement for signature, and an information sheet. Read the NJ AIS Accreditation Team Member Guide and bring to the visit.

___Return the Confidentiality/Conflicting of Interest Statement to Lisa Campisi, NJ AIS
Director of Accreditation, at lcampisi@nja is.org.

___Chair sends a letter or email to introduce him or herself to Visiting Team members. A conference call for introductions can also be used.

___Chair sends interest survey with areas of expertise to team members. Complete and return to team Chair.

___Chair sends an email with the preliminary schedule and an interest survey to team members. The Chair may recommend specific preparation to the team members such as pre-writing. Emphasis is placed on a review of the NJ AIS Standards of Accreditation. Team members will be asked about food allergies or dietary restrictions.

___School sends Visiting Team members the Self-Study, other materials, and hotel information.

___Visiting Team members participate in NJ AIS training session conducted via Zoom Video Conference. This training is organized and scheduled by the NJ AIS Director of Accreditation.

___Be sure you have read the school’s Self-Study Report completely prior to the visit. Give particular care to the sections you will cover in the Visiting Team report. Make notes and prepare questions in advance.

___Review the school’s website and any other materials sent.
INFORMATION, EXPECTATIONS, AND PROCEDURE

Please check into the hotel on the first day of the accreditation visit in the afternoon. The Visiting Team will gather shortly after the recommended check-in time for a training session. After that session, the Team will go to the school for a tour and brief welcoming reception. The Team will return to the hotel for dinner and an organizational meeting on the first evening that will enable all to “hit the ground running.”

Included in this Guide is a copy of the Visiting Team member interest survey that lists the various areas and related standards to be covered in the evaluation. Team members will select choices that will help the Chair to allocate the observation and writing assignments. Please know that the Chair will try to honor your requests and preferences; however, compromises may have to be made to assure comprehensive coverage of the different areas.

Please alert the Chair if you have any food allergies, dietary restrictions, or need special accommodations.

As representatives of NJAIS, your dress during this accreditation visit must be professional. In addition, please arrange to bring a laptop for use during the visit. (If you do not have access to one, let the Chair know.)

Finally, keep track of and retain receipts for all of your travel expenses. A reimbursement form will be submitted during the visit.
Visiting Team Member Interest Survey

Please mark in each section your top four choices (“1” = Highest to “4” = Lower Interest) and return via email to the Visiting Team Chair.

SUB-COMMITTEE ASSIGNMENTS

The Chair makes sub-committee assignments based on Visiting Team member interest surveys and expertise, the size of the Visiting Team, and the needs of the school. Visiting Team members will work together to create the sub-committee reports that correlate with the standards and school’s Self-Study. Each academic area needs to have a sub-committee to cover it and write a report. Schools that have a religious affiliation or have a boarding division will use Appendix A and/or B, and reports must be written about these areas, too.

The Chair may assign Visiting Team members to cover those areas in whatever configuration he or she thinks will be best. The Chair should keep in mind that everything mentioned in the report needs to have been corroborated by at least two members of the Visiting Team. Every attempt should be made to conduct formal meetings with at least two team members in attendance.

One method of organizing the coverage for each sub-committee is to assign two people to investigate and be responsible for each area with one person having the primary responsibility for writing that section. This person is designated as the Subcommittee Leader. This way everyone has at least one area to write about and other areas to support. This does not mean that the other Visiting Team members do not help in all areas; they do.

Please see the sub-committee list on the next page.

Section III: The Visit

OPENING VISITING TEAM MEETING

On-site training and orientation of the Visiting Team:

1. Overview of process by the Team Chair (PowerPoint presentation may be used).

2. The Visiting Team is to determine if the school is doing what it says it is doing, realizing its Mission, and if it is meeting the NJAIS Standards for Accreditation. The Chair and Visiting Team will read and review the school’s Mission/Philosophy together during the opening meeting. The Mission will be referenced throughout the visit.

3. Confidentiality is expected both while at the school and after the visit concludes.

4. Visiting Team members are to ask questions, but not to use “loaded” questions or questions phrased in a negative form.

5. Each faculty member should be visited at least once for about 10 minutes by two different team members. During classroom visits, please avoid taking notes. Items needed to be noted should be written outside the classroom. The Chair will post a list of faculty members in the team room and have team members initial upon visiting respective classrooms.

6. Visiting Team members should turn off cell phones and not make or receive calls during classroom visits, Visiting Team deliberations, or other school events (such as the reception).

7. Requests for additional information from the school should be directed through the Chair or Vice-Chair.

8. Review the format to be used in constructing the sub-committee reports (see sample in Appendix).

9. Visiting Team members should consult the school’s Statement of Mission/Philosophy frequently and note also that the outcomes are to be measured against the respective Standards for Accreditation.

10. Sub-committee members should check several commendations and recommendations as the most important, and identify themes that might be included in the Chair’s Concluding Exit Remarks.
11. Sub-committee reports should be filed with the Chair via Google Doc, email or on a thumb drive, as instructed by the Chair.

12. The Visiting Team will convene during and after dinner each evening; however, there will be no excessive late night meetings.

13. Expenses for travel, food, and lodging are paid by the school. Any personal charges to the room bill (such as telephone calls) are to be paid by the individual. Return expense vouchers to your chair for presentation to the school for reimbursement before the Visiting Team members depart after the Exit Remarks on the third full day of the visit.

14. Leave no papers or computer files behind in the Visiting Team room. Do not remove any materials provided by the school (yearbooks, catalogues, handbooks, etc.).
RECEPTION

At the opening reception, the Chair will present brief opening remarks. Visiting Team members will introduce themselves; you should state your name, school name, and title at your current school.

REVIEWING ON-SITE DOCUMENTS

The Team Chair will provide Visiting Team members with the list of on-site documents housed in the Visiting Team Room for their review.

VISITING SCHOOL PERSONNEL

Visiting Team members are provided with a list of faculty, staff, and administration – this may be posted on paper or digitally. Team members should initial each person with whom they have met. Midway through the visit, assess who still needs to be interviewed. By the time the Visiting Team leaves, everyone in the school community should feel valued and heard.

WRITING AND EDITING SUB-COMMITTEE REPORTS

Visiting Team members will be instructed that the Visiting Team report is comprised of individual sub-committee reports. A sample sub-committee report is found in the Appendix of this Guide; NJAIS can also provide additional samples to the Team as needed. Each report consists of a narrative section describing the criteria area and listing anything not in agreement with the Self-Study or not consistent with the school’s mission and philosophy. This is followed by a list of commendations and recommendations. To facilitate this part of the report and insure consistency:

- Commendations are phrased as, “The school is commended for ...”
- Recommendations are phrased as, “The Visiting Team recommends that the school ...”

Except under unusual circumstances, the number of commendations and recommendations in the sub-committee’s report should be approximately equal in number. There are usually three-five (3-5) commendations recommendations in sub-committee reports, though this may change given the circumstances at the school being visited.

Projection may be utilized in sharing sub-committee reports in order to facilitate this process and to accommodate different learning styles of the Visiting Team.

Be sure to refer to the school’s Self-Study Report when you are writing a section so that all recommendations they make for themselves are also covered in the Visiting Team’s Report.
STANDARDS VOTING RECORD

A copy of the NJAIS Standards for Accreditation is included in the Accreditation Team Member Guide. A printed copy should be made available to each team member when voting on standards.

Note: The school must meet all standards to be granted accreditation. **

EXIT REMARKS

At the initial reception, the chair will be present an overview of the accreditation process and will ask Visiting Team members to introduce themselves.

The Chair will prepare and deliver the Concluding Exit Remarks on the afternoon of the final day to the school community. There will be no opportunity for questions. It is highly recommended that members of the Visiting Team attend this meeting. The Chair and all Visiting Team members should leave promptly at the conclusion of the Exit Remarks.
SAMPLE SCHEDULE FOR THE DECCENNIAL VISIT

The schedule for the Decennial Visit is created by the school in coordination with the Chair of the Visiting Team. Please note that the accreditation team visit is scheduled from Sunday afternoon to Wednesday afternoon or Tuesday afternoon to Friday afternoon. These dates are selected based on both the optimum time for the school to host the team and the Chair’s availability. Prior to the visit, faculty must be informed that there should be no tests, full-period movies, or field trips scheduled when the team is on campus. A “normal” school-day schedule should be in effect, and faculty, administrators, and staff should be on campus and available for the duration of the visit.

SUGGESTIONS FOR VISITING TEAM MEMBERS

The task of a Visiting Team member is twofold: to see if the Self-Study is in fact an accurate description of what is occurring at the school, and to see if the program is consistent with the school’s Mission and Philosophy. In order to do this effectively, one must put one’s own Mission and Philosophy aside and think only from the perspective of the school. This is not an easy task.

Before an evaluator arrives at the school he or she should have read the Self-Study carefully and should have compiled questions to be pursued. The process of evaluating a school is a sophisticated one. One must proceed from the hard, objective data at hand to some meaningful subjective assessments and conclusions.

- Prepare by reading the Self-Study and documents and target questions for sub-committee areas.
• Relax and enjoy the conversations. Convey interest in the person as a professional with valuable thoughts, feelings, and opinions. Set a positive tone.

• Taking notes is appropriate (except during classroom visits).

• Be more concerned with the whole of the school than with its various segments. Ultimately, you must relate each part back to the larger context. Your objective is to arrive at in-depth conclusions; don’t be distracted by surface matters.

• Ask questions that offer open-ended opportunities to talk honestly about the school’s strengths and weaknesses.

• Avoid questions that presume a negative response or imply criticism.

• Be alert to those cues and clues that can open wider perspectives for you on the school and your assigned area. You are in quest of the major strengths and pertinent areas needing further development. As some tentative conclusions begin to form in your mind, search out the information that will shed more light on these.

• When a flat statement is made by a person from the school, ask him or her to provide an illustration or to cite the facts on which he or she has based this judgment.

• Listen carefully to what people tell you. Avoid offering your own point of view.

• Be realistic in both your evaluations and your suggestions. Some of the constraints under which a school is operating may not be able to be changed. If this is so, keep your evaluation and your suggestions within the context of those given conditions.

• Discuss the school and all of its aspects freely with your colleagues on the Visiting Team. Be open to other viewpoints. The findings of your teammates will reinforce and challenge your views at different points in your discussions. (Do not discuss your reactions with members of the school staff.) Maintain your confidentiality pledge.

• Any conclusions or observations that you want to put into the report must be corroborated by another committee member so always check out what you are seeing or hearing with other members of the Visiting Team.

• The final report is a Visiting Team report. This means that you are to bring back to the Visiting Team your own conclusions and impressions regarding your areas of assignment, but the final report, and all of its parts, is based on decisions made by the entire Visiting Team.
• The ultimate goal of accreditation is school improvement. Maintain a growth mindset.

WRITING THE REPORT

The Report is the culmination of the 3.5-day visit and brings together the findings of the Visiting Team.

Format and Style: The Director of Accreditation will provide a template. Chairs can determine format for preparation of the report such as placing the files on a Google Drive (or comparable). NJAIS will open and share the Google Doc.

- Font: Please use 12-point Calibri, Garamond, or Times New Roman, throughout the report.
- Add page numbers to the bottom of pages.
- Lower, Middle, Upper School, Self-Study, and Visiting Team should be capitalized throughout the report, as well as titles, i.e., Board Chair, Business Manager, Head of School, etc.
- Please use the Harvard comma in a sequence.

Content:

- Title page: listing the school, its location, and the dates of the visit.
- Listing of the Visiting Team, their titles, their schools, and locations.
- Introduction written by the Chair. This should include some school history, culture, a comment about the Self-Study Report, and a general overview of the visit.
- Basic statistics about the school including:
  - Date founded
  - Coed/single sex
  - Day/boarding
  - Grades covered by the school
  - Number of sections for each grade
  - Number of students enrolled (boy/girl)
  - Number of faculty (full/part-time)
  - Faculty/student ratio
  - Facilities summary
- The bulk of the report is made up of the individual sub-committee reports. Each one consists of a narrative section describing the criteria area and listing anything not in agreement with the Self-Study or not consistent with the school’s mission and philosophy. This is followed by a list of commendations and recommendations.
To facilitate this part of the report and insure consistency:

- Commendations are phrased as, “The school is commended for...”
- Recommendations are phrased as, “The Visiting Team recommends that the school...”

- Put a bullet point in front of each recommendation and commendation. (Do NOT number these.)

- Opening verbs for recommendations might include:
  - Address
  - Determine
  - Formalize
  - Review...with an eye to...
  - Articulate
  - Develop
  - Identify
  - Strive for...
  - Assess
  - Enhance
  - Implement
  - Undertake
  - Broaden
  - Ensure
  - Institute
  - Consider
  - Clarify
  - Establish
  - Increase
  - Define
  - Find
  - Pursue or vigorously pursue

- Avoid the use of “should,” “must,” or “continue to.”

If the recommendation is one that the school has identified and included in the Self-Study Report, acknowledge that by including in the recommendation “as indicated in the Self-Study,” or “the school follow its own recommendation...”

Except under unusual circumstances, the number of commendations and recommendations in the sub-committee’s report should be approximately equal in number, and generally recommendations should not exceed commendations. In most reports, there are between 3-5 commendations and recommendations. (see p. 68 for a sample sub-committee report)
Sample Recommendations

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Not so good…</th>
<th>Better…</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Hire a full-time assistant to work in the Admission Office.</td>
<td>Review staffing in the Admission Office in light of the increased number of applications.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Use a newsletter to keep regular contact with alumni.</td>
<td>Establish regular effective contact with alumni.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Consider increasing the number of computers in the computer lab so that each student in the lab has a computer.</td>
<td>With an eye toward the school’s mission and the department’s goals, determine the optimal number of computers needed to support the academic program.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Examine the quality of the meals and the snacks being served.</td>
<td>In line with the school’s goal regarding a healthy body, ensure that food served for snacks and lunch is nutritious and appealing.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

As a conclusion to the “heart” of the report, there should be a list, in descending order of priority, of Major Commendations and Major Recommendations. The major recommendations usually reflect themes of a global nature. They will be mostly drawn from the body of the report but MUST INCLUDE A RECOMMENDATION ON ANY STANDARD NOT MET. There are usually between 5-8 major commendations and 5-8 major recommendations.

Final Section

The final section of the Visiting Team’s report consists of gratitude to the school for its hospitality and points the school towards the next step in the evaluation process – the study of the commendations and recommendations leading to the strengthening of the program, and ultimately, school improvement.

Sample Thank You Section

The Visiting Team is truly grateful for the multiple courtesies extended to us during our stay. Faculty, students, parents, and Trustees were universally kind and considerate. Whether it was the umbrellas to protect us from the rain, delicious food, children holding doors, proactive teachers and students helping us find our way—we felt entirely welcomed and were able to do our work knowing that our observations and words would be regarded by the school as a thoughtful complement to your Self-Study Report.
What to Avoid

- Under no circumstances should the report make any comment about the likelihood of the school’s securing or failing to secure accreditation.

- Generalizations. Recommendations should be specific and precise.

- Singling out any employee by name or title, with the exception of the Head of School.

- The use of “should” or “must.”

- Recommendations that will have major budgetary implications such as adding a program, facilities, or equipment, unless this has been stated in the Self-Study Report and confirmed by the Head of School. Additional staff should be recommended with tremendous care; the Accreditation Chair may also want to discuss this with the Head of School.

- Advocating positions that the school has not taken, remembering that the role of the Visiting Team is to determine if the school’s stated mission is being realized.

- Philosophical recommendations that are clearly impossible because of financial or physical limitations. Recommendations that are realistic and achievable are the only ones that will be of value to the school.

NJAIS Standards for Accreditation approved by the NJAIS Board of Trustees in January 2021.
Sample Program Sub-Committee Report – Science

Science at Sample School is designed to give students an understanding of science topics, cultivate an awareness of the “big picture,” and nurture engaged, thoughtful observers of the world around them. The understanding of science is described as factual interpretation through the rigorous use of the Scientific Method as a discipline for seeking truth; the teaching of science is in keeping with the mission of the school.

Science classes we observed were interactive. Students were engaged in their work and displayed ownership of what they were doing and learning. Leadership was demonstrated through presentations, and the rapport between teacher and student suggested the science lab is a place for asking questions and thinking critically.

Lower School and Middle School classes meet in rooms specifically built as science labs. However, when Sample School moved into the new building, many materials and supplies were lost or damaged, and the department is still replenishing equipment. This is being accomplished partly through grants applied for and received by the science teachers. The Lower School science room does not have a SMART Board but does have access to a laptop cart. Students readily and easily use laptops as part of science instruction.

The Lower and Middle Schools make attempts to integrate and reinforce ideas across disciplines wherever possible. In one Lower School lesson, students used the laptops to conduct an Internet search on minerals, with a secondary objective to determine and document a reliable on-line source.

The curriculum documents provided are in two different formats. The scope and sequence for certain grade levels was somewhat thin; our sense is that students are learning more than is reflected in the documents, but we cannot substantiate this.

The school is commended for:

- cultivating a love of science and a comfort with scientific methods and procedures that is in keeping with the values of the school’s Mission and Philosophy
- integrating other content areas with science
- hiring science teachers with backgrounds in both teaching and science
- holding a school-wide Science Fair each year.

The Visiting Team recommends that the school:

- document the scope and sequence using a more uniform document so parents, teachers, and students can easily understand the curriculum
- analyze the scope of the Middle School program by comparing the curriculum to model Middle School science curricula. Expand and refine the curriculum in light of this analysis
- seek and invite expert guest speakers in the community to address current issues and serve as role models of leadership for the students
- identify assessment tools used in the grades K – 3.

VISITING TEAM SUPPORT CHECKLIST

Name tags should be available at the hotel for all Visiting Team members upon their arrival. Throughout the visit, all faculty and staff should wear name tags as well.

Outside of each classroom the schedule should be posted for that room’s use throughout the three days of the visit, including for each period of the day the teacher’s name, grade level, subject area, etc.

The Visiting Team’s workrooms, in both the school and the hotel, must remain off-limits to other school personnel and community members for the duration of the visit. The following materials and supplies should be on hand:

- Computers and printers, as arranged in advance
- A “Required Documents” area containing all required and supplemental materials (on site only)
- A map of the campus, and a floor plan with room locations for each of the buildings
- A list of school personnel, including job titles, classroom/office locations, and phone extensions
- A complete schedule by division, with “bells” indicated
- A binder including faculty and administrator schedules for all three days of the visit
- Yearbook, view book, and other publications
- Supplies:
  - Pens, pencils, and markers
  - Paper for printer
  - Pads of paper
  - Stapler
  - Post-It Notes
  - Scotch tape
  - Flash drives
  - File folders

And above all...plenty of non-alcoholic beverages and healthy snacks!
Section V: Case Studies

1. It is becoming increasingly apparent that several one-person academic departments at the school you are visiting are weak. Reports from students, faculty, parents, and trustees contain criticism and concern about the library, the computer department, and the second grade, each of which are the responsibility of individual faculty members. The Visiting Team members working on these particular areas concur with this sentiment. You are concerned that any attempt to address these problems in the report will unfairly undermine the efforts (and self-esteem) of the hard-working but less-than-creative individual teacher in each area.

☐ What would you do?
☐ How do you lead the Visiting Team?
☐ What recommendation would be written in the report?

2. The leadership style of the school that you are visiting is described in the Self-Study as being “open, collaborative, and inclusive. The Head has an open-door policy that all embrace.” However, at the Sunday afternoon reception, a trustee and a member of the faculty approach you and report that the Head is rarely present around school, is largely inaccessible, and makes all-important decisions by himself.

☐ How do you respond?
☐ What are your next steps with the Visiting Team?
☐ What else does the Visiting Team need to know?
☐ What recommendation would be written in the report?

3. While talking to a member of the maintenance department, you are told that there are significant amounts of lead paint remaining in the Lower School classroom wing. There is no mention of this in the Self-Study, but the Head of School confirmed to you that he thought, “There is still some work to be done in that area.” You ask a Kindergarten teacher if he is aware of the situation, and he reports that he knows about it but jokes that he “keeps the kids from eating too much of it.”

☐ What do you do?
☐ What else does the Visiting Team need to know?
☐ How do you handle this in the report?
4. After what has been a good first day of interviews and class visits, you observe that one team member’s style is more like an interrogation rather than an interview. He creates an impression that he is mostly looking for negative information and a number of people on the faculty are beginning to feel that the entire evaluation process is a “witch hunt” and nothing positive can come of it. The Chair was not in the room during these subcommittee meetings and is unaware of this situation.

□ What do you do?

5. It is Tuesday evening, and the Visiting Team has assembled to share drafts of completed sections, commendations, and recommendations. The following recommendation is read:

“The Visiting Team recommends that the practice of housing both boys and girls on the same floor and in the same dormitories cease immediately, and that Smith Hall be made into a boys’ dorm and Jones Hall into a girls’ dorm. Also, appropriate security, policies, and expectations should be set in place as soon as possible to ensure the separation of the genders.”

□ How could this recommendation be written to be less prescriptive?
□ How do you manage the interference of personal opinions in the writing of recommendations?
